

The image is a technical drawing of a wooden toy box assembly kit. It features a central row of four compartments, each housing a different piece of furniture: a chair, a stool, another chair, and another stool. Above this row is a large rectangular lid labeled "Deckel". Below the compartments are two circular bases. The drawing includes various assembly instructions indicated by icons and numbers:

- A glue tube icon with the number "1" and an arrow pointing to the side panels of the compartments.
- A glue tube icon with an arrow pointing to one of the circular bases.
- A key icon in a circle next to dashed lines indicating where to insert the key into the compartments.
- A diamond-shaped icon in a circle next to a solid line indicating where to place the diamond-shaped pieces.

The entire diagram is enclosed in a dashed-line border.
